|| Psychiatry || Scientists Show How the Effects of Psychosis Spread Throughout the Brain ||

|| Sunday: September 24: 2023 || α. Psychoses like schizophrenia costs the Australian government around $01.5 billion annually and disrupt the lives of people struggling with the disease. Monash University researchers have modelled how the effects of psychosis spread through the brain, allowing them to isolate areas where these changes may originate and which could be targeted by therapies designed to reduce the disease's progression.

The Study, published the Journal of the American Medical Association Psychiatry, details how the scientists were able to map and model the spread of brain changes in people with different stages of psychoses, such as, schizophrenia, from people newly diagnosed to those, who have experienced psychosis for years. The Study, led by Dr Sid Chopra, from the Turner Institute for Brain and Mental Health and Monash University's School of Psychological Sciences, identified the hippocampus, which is important for memory, as a possible early site of brain changes in psychosis.

"This finding could, potentially, guide therapies, that can target this area of the brain, potentially, limiting the impact of the illness or, perhaps, even, reducing the risk of psychosis onset." Dr Chopra said. The Study looked at 534 individuals from four groups, spanning early and late stages of psychotic illness. The researchers used Magnetic Resonance Imaging: MRI to examine changes in grey matter, that occur at the different illness stages.

They found that the evolution of psychoses, as measured by changes in grey matter, may originate in the hippocampus and, gradually, spread across the brain, over time, via the nerve or axonal connections. According to Dr Chopra, "We found that the pattern of grey matter change, seen in psychosis is not randomly distributed across the brain but, is shaped by a complex network of structural connections, in a very similar way to how we see the progression of neuro-degenerative diseases in the brain."

The researchers used a mathematical model to predict grey matter volume changes in four different groups of people with schizophrenia, scanned at both early and late stages of illness. According to Professor Alex Fornito, who led the research team, "We found consistent evidence that the hippocampus, an area important for memory and which is known to play an important role in schizophrenia, is a candidate epicentre of brain changes in the illness."

Importantly, the researchers were able to distinguish brain changes associated with disease from those, linked to the use of antipsychotic medication. "Most research has taken place with people, who are already taking antipsychotic medications, making it difficult to disentangle the effects of medication from those of illness." said Dr Chopra.

"Our network-based model was able to account for both medication-related and illness-related brain changes, meaning that brain network architecture represents a fundamental constraint on both types of brain changes in psychosis."

According to Dr Chopra, the new approach opens new possibilities for understanding the causes of brain changes in schizophrenia and for forecasting how they might evolve in individual patients. "Our work demonstrates that it is possible to investigate promising mechanisms behind widespread brain changes in schizophrenia, using fairly simple models. We hope to further extend these models to identify possible treatment targets and predict how the illness might evolve in individual people."

Humanics: All-For-One-One-For-All

|| Selfishness Is the Most Definitive Way to, Absolutely, Harm One's Very Own Self, As Well As, Everyone and Everything Else: In Other Words, Selfishness Is Nothing But Absolute, Complete and Comprehensive Absence of Questioning or Thoughtfulness or Consideration, Which Makes Us Think and That, Thus, Enables Us to Reach the Rational Base and Foundation in Life and in Existence: This Means That Selfishness, Actually, Is a Terminal Enemy of the Agency of the Human Mind, Which It Keeps on Tearing Away and Apart by Being Devoid of Questioning and Thoughtfulness Because the Very Agency of the Human Mind Is a 'Structure', Created by the Architectonics of the Architecture of Human Rationality, Which Requires a Human Agency of the Human Mind to Put It to Use by Thinking, Questioning, Consideration, Analysing, Learning and Developing, All of Which Selfishness Terminates: Humanics: Humanics: All-For-One-One-For-All ||

The world has, apparently, accepted that Capitalism is the High Pinnacle of All Systems and, some still dream that Marxism will rescue humanity from this Killing Mechanism Capitalism, we refuse to subscribe to that. Humanics is the Post-Marxist and Post-Capitalistic World View of What Humanity can be and what it can do and how infinitely better a human condition can be created in a Humanical Society, by eradicating ownership and money and by establishing belongingship in human enterprise, setting all humans at liberty and equality under the rule of law in natural justice with a direct form of democracy, humanics calls it, Humanicsovics, in which, each human soul is her:his own High Representative. In this, Humanics is the Minority Vision and we do not and can not expect millions and billions of people supporting our vision today but We Whole-Heartedly Believe That ONE DAY This Humanity Shall BE ALL HUMANICAL: By When: We Know Not But This: That Being a Monstrous Killing Mechanism Capitalism IS Unsustainable: The World Shall Change One Day and Every Change Begins with an Idea, with a Vision:

We invite you to Envision the Vision and Philosophy of Humanics and Support The Humanion, The Humanion Portable and The Foundation to Keep Taking Forward the Vision and Philosophy of Humanics, to Keep on Challenging Capitalism's Poverty Paradigm, for an Infinitely Better Humanity in an Infinitely Better Human Condition for All Humanity Across Mother Earth. Thank You.
